A blue circle indicates that some, but not all, facilities are accessible according to Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) standards. It means you can expect an accessible parking space, a clear path of travel to the facility, and adherence to established ADA guidelines at that facility. For specific information, call the

All parks have potable water and are open year-round for day use unless otherwise noted. This symbol \(\checkmark\) represents year-round camping or lodging.

Notes for RVers
Each listing notes the maximum length of campsites if RV camping is allowed; both the RV and any towed vehicles must be able to fit into this space. Some parks have pull-through sites — these are also noted in the listings.
Look for this symbol \(\checkmark\) to find parks with RV dump stations. Please use these stations to empty full holding tanks rather than campsite connections, which can overflow.

oregonstateparks.org  •  reservations: 1-800-452-5687  •  information: 1-800-551-6949
1 Choose your campground and dates: Use this guide or visit www.oregonstateparks.org to select a park. About half of State Park campgrounds are first-come, first-served, meaning they do not take reservations. If the campground takes reservations (look for this symbol in the listing), you can reserve your site(s) one day to nine months in advance. Reservations are highly recommended in the summer! A length of stay is limited to 14 nights, and campers must leave the park for at least three nights before returning.

2 Make a reservation (optional): Call Oregon State Parks’ call center toll-free at 1-800-452-5687, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. You can also reserve online or take a chance and show up at a park hoping that a campsite will be available. Just remember that if you arrive at a reservable campground without a reservation, you may be able to register only for a single night.

   Please note: If you are planning to rent a yurt, cabin, or tepee without a reservation and arrive after 8 p.m., there may not be anyone available to check you in. It’s best to arrive before 5 p.m. or make a reservation in advance.

3 Plan: If this is your first time camping, it’s a good idea to assemble your gear and food beforehand and practice pitching your tent. Before you go, check www.oregonstateparks.org for driving directions as well as weather forecasts and park advisories (click on Special Notices at the top). For road conditions, consult www.tripcheck.com, which is run by the Oregon Department of Transportation.

4 Check in at the campground: Stop at the registration booth when you arrive. If no ranger is available, you’ll need to complete a self-registration envelope. Just insert your reservation confirmation, tear off the top receipt, and deposit the envelope in the payment box. (If you don’t have a reservation, you can find an open tent or RV site by checking a list at the registration booth or looking for tags at the sites. Then fill out the self-registration envelope by inserting your payment, tearing off the top receipt, and dropping the envelope in the box.) Display the receipt on the dashboard of your car; it counts as your parking permit.

5 Set up your site!
Oregonians treasure their beaches. The entire 362-mile coastline is protected from development, thanks to Oregon's famous 1967 Beach Bill. Come to the north coast to watch for whales, learn about Oregon's military defense history at Fort Stevens, and hike rugged headlands in Lewis and Clark’s footsteps.

Oregon's 362-mile coastline is home to a rich mix of extraordinary animals, revealed only when the tide retreats. Colorful rocky shore species like anemones, crabs, sea stars, and barnacles have adapted to the volatile environment where land meets sea. Start your exploration at one of 27 state parks, some of which offer roving interpreters and seasonal tidepool programs. These are our top picks, listed north to south:

Seasonal interpreters at Haystack Rock's easy-to-access tidepools in Cannon Beach offer an educational display, microscopes and touch tanks. More challenging trails lead to tidepools at Ecola (near Cannon Beach) and Oswald West (near Manzanita).

At Seal Rock SRA south of Newport, a more challenging trail leads to a dazzling display, and an interpretive ranger offers seasonal tours.

Carl B. Washburne State Park south of Yachats is a great base for intertidal exploration at nearby Neptune SSV and Heceta Head Lighthouse SSV. The rocky pools at Neptune's Strawberry Hill are a local favorite that could take all day to explore.

Harris Beach north of Brookings also has seasonal interpreters at its tidepools and intertidal programs at the campground.

Check [oregon Tidepools](http://oregon tidepools.org) and [bit.ly/OPRD calendar](http://bit.ly/OPRD calendar) for a list of tidepool programs at these and other parks. Whether you decide to explore on your own or join a guided program, it's important to treat these fragile ecosystems gently. More information and tidepool etiquette are in our Tidepools are Alive brochure, [bit.ly/oregon tidepools](http://bit.ly/oregon tidepools).

Oregon lighthouses all have stories to tell: their construction, the brutal storms they endured, the ghosts that are said to haunt them, and the lighthouse keepers who kept lonely vigil from their towers.

Nine original lighthouses stretch from Tillamook in the north to Cape Blanco in the south. Five are open to the public seasonally; some offer tours that include a climb to the lantern or tower watch rooms. Many are listed on the National Register of Historic Places. They are a perfect destination for a coastal day trip or weekend getaway. All are located near state campgrounds and coastal attractions including tidepools and trails.

On the Three Capes Scenic Loop, Cape Meares Lighthouse and the cape where it perches offer excellent views of wildlife, including peregrine falcons that nest on the cliffs in spring and whales that migrate in winter. Yaquina Head, still active, is the tallest lighthouse at 93 feet and still has its original lens. Heceta Head’s powerful beam shines the furthest — 21 miles out to sea. The tower reopened in 2013 after a two-year restoration project. This is a premium spot to watch whales and birds.

Umpqua River Lighthouse is also a fantastic place to see whales. Furthest south is Cape Blanco, which towers majestically above the westernmost point in Oregon and features the oldest continuously operating light.

For information on Oregon’s lighthouses, call 800-551-6949 or pick up an Oregon Coast Lighthouse Brochure. View the brochure online at http://bit.ly/oregonlighthouses.
This is the wild end of the Oregon Coast—rugged, less traveled and stunningly scenic. The warmer climate and sunnier days lure hikers and campers with fragrant spring wildflowers, spectacular sunsets and beautiful blooms within the manicured gardens at Shore Acres.

Eachcombers have long strolled along Oregon’s beaches secure in the knowledge that the iconic stretches are preserved for all to enjoy. But it easily could have been a different story. As 1967 dawned, the risk that more of the state’s beloved beaches might fall into private hands loomed large. The threat was driven home the previous summer, when a Cannon Beach motel owner fenced off an area of beach around his motel and planted signs warning: “Guests Only Please.”

Luckily, beachgoers took notice and quickly communicated their unhappiness in letters to state authorities. In the spring of 1967, Rep. Sidney Bazett, Rep. W. Stan Ouderkirk and Sen. Anthony Yturri introduced HB 1601, soon to be dubbed the Beach Bill. At first, few paid much attention. That is until reporter Matt Kramer wrote a series of news stories alerting the public to what they stood to lose.

After months of battle that nearly killed it, the Beach Bill passed the House and Senate. Gov. Tom McCall signed it into law on July 6, 1967. And so it is that today Oregonians and visitors from all over the world can enjoy our beaches and all the wonders they offer. Take a stroll, explore our tidepools, hunt for agates and fossils, dip your toes in the sand—and know this beach is yours and mine and everyone’s. Now that’s something to celebrate.

Spend an afternoon playing disc golf, and you’ll see why the sport is a favorite Northwest pastime. A round of disc golf is a simple pleasure on a sunny day. The sport crosses all generations, and it’s easy to get started. You can get an array of discs designed for different throws and distances for under $20. At some of our parks, you can even rent or borrow discs.

Beginners and families will enjoy Champoeg’s mostly flat, 18-hole course that winds through a grove of oak trees. Although it’s the oldest disc golf course in Oregon, built in 1980, the course was updated in 2014 with new challenges and larger tee pads.

Milo McIver, southeast of Portland near Estacada, boasts a world-renowned 27-hole course along the scenic Clackamas River that features both amateur and professional tee pads, providing challenges for the most skilled players. Rent or buy discs at the park office.

Thirty miles west of Portland, L.L. Stub Stewart has a technical, mountain-style, trail-based 18-hole disc golf course that winds its way through 40 acres of mature forest, as well as a 3-hole beginner course. Buy discs at the welcome center.

Along the Sandy River in Troutdale sits Dabney’s 18-hole course, considered one of the most technical courses in the northwest with its diverse terrain and challenging shots through open fields and narrow tree alleys.

Also in the Gorge, Rooster Rock offers two distinct 9-hole courses. Learn the game in the open west course, than up your game in the more technical, trail-based east course that throws in elevation changes, dense woods and narrow fairways.

Other state parks with disc golf:
- Benson, Columbia River Gorge, 9 beginner holes.
- Willamette Mission, north of Salem, 18 more advanced holes.
- Dexter, southeast of Eugene, 18 intermediate holes.
- South Beach, near Newport, 9 beginner holes.
- McVay Rock, near Brookings, 9 beginner holes.
- Illinois River Forks, Cave Junction, 9 beginner holes.

BY BICYCLE OR BOOT

Cyclists and hikers experience Oregon’s lush valleys, colorful deserts and jagged mountain passes in terms of pedal strokes and blistered steps. And we at Oregon State Parks welcome the road-weary traveler to rest in our designated hiker/biker camping areas at 31 of our state campgrounds.

These areas are first-come, first-served for those traveling under their own power without a support vehicle. Most are conveniently located along Oregon’s Scenic Bikeways and other popular cycling and hiking routes, such as the Historic Columbia River Highway and the Oregon Coast Trail. A “Campground Full” sign doesn’t apply to these sites — there’s nearly always space for one more. For a mere $5 per night per person, you can fully enjoy state campgrounds without a reservation.

We added hiker/biker camping areas in 1976 for Bikecentennial, when thousands of cross-country cyclists hit the pavement to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. Over the last 10 years, bicycle touring has surged in popularity, and we’re responding by updating our most-used hiker/biker camps to meet the needs of the modern adventurist.

You’ll find new amenities including bike racks, picnic tables and a bank of personal storage lockers with solar-powered USB ports at Champoeg in the Willamette Valley, Milo McIver near Estacada and Bullards Beach on the south coast. Watch for similar improvements to other hiker/biker camps in the next few years. It’s just one more way we build Oregon’s reputation as a premier cycling destination.

Winter beckons

On the eastern slopes of the Cascades, winter comes first, and the snow blankets the landscape. The state parks are a haven for winter activities, from cross-country skiing and snowshoeing to sledding and snowmobiling. Whether you’re looking for a quiet retreat or an adventure, there’s something for everyone.

Strap on your skis and traverse our trails from a whole new, wintry perspective.

Just as winter arrives, cabins and yurts get a little bit cozier. Oregon state parks are quiet and still, the resident wildlife less timid, the weather wild and raw. But inside, you can crank up the heat and curl up with a good book, challenge your companions to a game, or simply enjoy a rare bit of solitude.

Eastern Oregon parks are especially serene when blanketed in snow. Emigrant Springs, located along the Oregon Trail near the summit of the Blue Mountains, has six rustic cabins to keep you toasty warm while you take in views of the winter wonderland outside. Strap on your snowshoes or cross-country skis and punch out straight from the cabin loop onto 20 miles of trails through the woods, or test out the park’s two popular sledding hills.

Rent a yurt at Tugman or Sunset Bay between Thanksgiving and New Year’s to visit the nearby Holiday Light show at Shore Acres State Park.

Campsites in the valley also offer yurts and cabins for all-weather camping and year-round recreation, such as hiking and disc golf.

Ready to play in the snow?

What follows is a general overview: individual parks may have additional or modified rules due to special circumstances. Check with a park employee for specific details. All rates, fees, and policies are subject to change without notice. For the most current information, visit our website or call the State Parks Information Line at 1-800-551-6949.

Camping rates: Camping rates are subject to change—check the website or call for the latest information. When you make a reservation, you’ll be charged in full for each night you plan to stay, plus an $8 non-refundable reservation fee per site. The call center and the online system both take VISA and MasterCard. The call center can accept checks and money orders, but you must make a reservation at least 10 days in advance, and we must receive your payment by mail within five calendar days of your call. Once payment is confirmed, your reservation is guaranteed at the rate quoted.

About Discounts: Oregon State Parks offers camping and day-use parking discounts to these groups:
- U.S. military veterans with a service-connected disability
- Active duty members of the U.S. military on official leave
- Oregon foster parents, guardians and adoptive foster parents and their children

We do not have special rates for any other demographic group, such as seniors.

Changes to a reservation can only be made over the phone by calling the call center during business hours (Monday-Friday, 8 a.m.-5 p.m.) and are subject to a service fee.

Cancelling your reservation: Call 800-452-5687 to cancel your reservation up to one day before your scheduled arrival date. If you need to cancel on your arrival date, call the park directly; phone numbers are provided in each campground listing. Cancellations are subject to a service fee.

Number of people at each site: Generally, the maximum number of overnight campers allowed at each site is eight. Park managers have the discretion to raise or lower that number, depending upon circumstances at the campground.

Parking and vehicles: At some parks, you need to display a day-use permit if you park a vehicle in the day-use area (look for this symbol in the listing). However, if you are a registered camper at any Oregon state park, your camping receipt serves as a day-use parking permit for all the days you are registered. 12-month and 24-month passes that give you unlimited day-use parking at parks that charge a fee are available by calling (1-800-551-6949) and park offices.

When camping, you’re generally allowed to park one vehicle at each of your sites unless they are walk-in or hiker/biker sites. Additional vehicles (which cannot be RVs, campers, or tent trailers) are subject to a $7 charge per vehicle per night to offset the costs of noise control and maintenance of the park grounds. The maximum number of vehicles allowed at a campsite is determined by the park manager, depending upon conditions in the park; some parks have a routine two-vehicle limit. The extra vehicle charge does not apply to a vehicle towed into the campground with a legal device (but check before you go to make sure your site can accommodate the extra length).

Check in and check out times: Check in is any time after 4 p.m. You must vacate your site by 1 p.m. Quiet hours are 10 p.m.-7 a.m.

Fires and cooking: Firewood is for sale at most campgrounds. Fires are permitted only in provided fire rings and barbecue grills, or on portions of the beach designated for campfires. To prevent the introduction of pests and plant diseases, Oregon Department of Agriculture regulations require the use of firewood either sourced in the Pacific Northwest (Oregon, Idaho, and Washington) or imported wood that has been heat-treated and labeled pest-free. Firewood must be natural and untreated, no more than two feet long, and free of metal, glass, and plastic. Do not use gasoline or petroleum-based products to start or maintain a fire. Park managers may temporarily restrict or prohibit fires due to hazardous conditions.

For safety reasons, open fires, portable heating devices, and stoves are not allowed inside park buildings, including yurts, cabins, and tepees (microwaves are provided in deluxe yurts and cabins). There is an outdoor fire ring at each site that you can use.
Smoking: Smoking in Oregon State Parks is allowed only in personal vehicles, RVs, campsites and portions of day use parks along state highways that are designated as safety rest areas by the Oregon Department of Transportation.

Pets: Pets are welcome at all state parks unless otherwise noted. They need to be physically restrained at all times, which means you must be holding them, holding onto their collar, or have them on a leash no longer than six feet. The exceptions are if your pet is in a designated off-leash area (parks with these facilities are noted in the listings); inside your vehicle, tent, or pet-friendly yurt or cabin; or on the beach (special rules apply—see our Pets in Parks brochure). In these cases, they must be under voice control and within sight. Please clean up after your pet to avoid a fine.

Pet-friendly yurts and cabins allow up to two pets (dogs or cats only) with a maintenance fee of $10 per night. They are available at Beverly Beach, Bullards Beach, Cape Blanco, Cape Lookout, Champoeg, Devil's Lake, Emigrant Springs, Fort Stevens, Harris Beach, Jessie M. Honeyman, LaPine, L.L. “Stub” Stewart, Nehalem Bay, Prineville Reservoir, Silver Falls, South Beach, Sunset Bay, Tumalo, Umpqua Lighthouse, Valley of the Rogue, and William Tugman. You can reserve online or through the call center.

Service Animals: In keeping with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), a service animal is defined as a dog that is trained to do work or perform tasks for the benefit of an individual with a disability. (Providing emotional support or deterring crime are not considered qualifying tasks.) Except under special conditions, service animals must also be restrained while in state parks.

Cable TV: Hookups are available at some RV sites at Beverly Beach, Devil’s Lake, and Harris Beach. There is an extra charge of $1 per night. Hookups are also available in some yurts at Beverly Beach and Harris Beach.

Types of Campsites

Except in hiker/biker and group camping areas, every site (including yurts, cabins, and tepees) has a picnic table and a fire ring or barbecue grill outside. Hot showers and modern restrooms are available at most campgrounds.

Full-hookup: Features a parking pad, electrical and sewage hookups, individual water supply, and access to a restroom.

Electrical: Features a parking pad, electrical hookup (no sewage), individual water supply, and access to a restroom.

Tent: Access to a water supply and restroom nearby. Parking pad located at the site. Self-contained RVs are allowed at most tent sites if they fit on the parking pad.

Primitive: Water and restrooms may be some distance away, and water source often serves multiple sites. Parking pad at the site is generally unpaved. Most sites accommodate self-contained RVs. Primitive boat-in campsites are found along the Willamette River Water Trail—visit willamettewatertrail.org for info.

Walk-in tent: Sites are similar to regular tent sites, with access to a restroom, but parking is some distance from the site.

Horse: Space for a camper unit (a motor home, trailer, or tent) with facilities for horses—corrals, manure bins, etc. Ask for our Horse Heaven brochure or access it online at bit.ly/horseheaven.

• Primitive campsites and corrals are available at seven parks: Bullards Beach, Cape Blanco, Collier, Emigrant Springs, Nehalem Bay, Silver Falls, and Willamette Mission. Horse camp sites at Collier are first-come, first-served; the others are reservable.

• Premier (full-hookup) campsites and corrals are available only at the Hares Canyon Horse Camp at L.L. “Stub” Stewart.

Hiker/biker: Cleared area for campers without motor vehicles (walk-in or bike-in camping only). Water and restrooms may be some distance away. There is usually a shared picnic table and fire pit. Available at most coastal parks and at Bates, Champoeg, Clyde Holliday, Cottonwood Canyon, Milo McIver, Stub Stewart, Tumalo, Unity Lake, and Wallowa Lake. Please note that rates are per person, rather than by site. See page 13 for details.

- Unity Lake (two rustic cabins)

Tepee: Canvas-covered wooden structure with lights (electricity), flooring, and beds with mattresses (linens not provided). Available at Clyde Holliday and Lake Owyhee. Sleeps five (at Lake Owyhee) or eight (Clyde Holliday). Open seasonally.

Please note: Cabins and yurts are popular on holidays and weekends, so be sure to book up to nine months in advance by calling 800-452-5687 or visiting oregonstateparks.org. See page 43 for information on winter cabin and yurt camping.
GROUP FACILITIES

Group Camping

Group tent: A common area designed to accommodate approximately 25 campers. Water and restrooms are nearby, and each area is generally equipped with at least five picnic tables and a fire pit. Group tent areas are available at 21 parks—reserve online.

Group RV: Large, open space with electrical hookups, picnic tables, fire pits, and access to water and restrooms. Available at Champoeg, Silver Falls (also can accommodate tent groups), and Fisherman’s Point (in Fall Creek State Recreation Area).

Group horse: Accommodates three to five camper units (motor homes, trailers, or tents). Available at Silver Falls and Stub Stewart.

The Ranches: These two barn-style buildings at Silver Falls can host overnight groups of up to 75 campers. Each has restrooms (but no showers) and a large kitchen.

Youth Camp: Silver Falls’ rustic youth camp has four clusters of eight cabins, along with a central recreation hall, dining hall and kitchen, shower building, and large play field. Closed for construction spring of 2017.

Meeting Halls

Group meeting halls offer countertops, accessible restrooms, and approximately 1,000 square feet of floor space. Most have kitchen facilities and picnic tables.

Group meeting halls are available at 13 state parks:

- Beverly Beach (yurt-style)
